ALLAN CAMPBELL'S SURVEY

In a late interview with Mr Wheelright, he had the kindness to present us a copy of Campbell's report to Pres. Derqui, which is at once a history of the Cordoba railway project and a reliable vade-mecum, full of interesting particulars respecting the interior. The preliminary difficulties being overcome, we are happy to state that this grand scheme is in train to be speedily commenced, and the journey of Dr. Rawson to Cordoba is a proof of the interest which our Nat, Government justly attaches to its realization. There are some among our countrymen who regard it a gigantic chimera, but we must remember that Mr. Wheelright occasioned grave fears for his sanity when he projected the Pacific steam Co. which has been so eminently successful. Audaces fa- vet fortuna, is an axiom of industrial as well as political science, and the enterprizing veteran has such confidence in the feasibility of his last and greatest undertaking that we predict he will convert all unbelievers and leave this S. American trunk railway a lasting memorial of his name, and of the success inseparable from energetic resolution.

Most of our readers are unacquainted with more than the concession voted by last Congress: we, therefore, extract freely from Mr. Campbell's official narrative, which possessses now even more interest than at the time of publication.

As the survey was commenced at Cordova, a brief description of the line traced will be given from that point towards the coast. The Primero River at Cordova lies about 120 feet below the level of the pampa, and as the slopes of the valley are too rapid to admit of a direct departure, it became necessary to seek a line ascending obliquely and with a moderate gradient until the upper plain was reached.

On reaching the pampa, the line is almost perfectly straight to the northern shore of the Tercero River opposite Villa Nueva, a distance of eighty-five miles. One slight and appreciable curve only is made, in order to lessen the descent to the Segundo River, and to cross that stream at a favourable point.

The passage of this river occurs eight leagues from Cordova, and about half a league south from the chapel of the pillar. A bridge of 250 yards long and fourteen feet high, is required.

Passing the Segundo River, the line crosses and recrosses the post-road three or four times, and is from one to two miles distant from it. From the point opposite Villa Nueva, the route follows the general course of the Tercero River for forty five miles.

The river is here about 160 yards wide, and its banks are from ten to forty feet high. The pasture of the adjacent grounds is said to be excellent for sheep and cattle, and, judging from the few cultivated spots found along the banks of the river, the fertility of the soil is undoubted.

Near the post-house of Zanjon, the river makes a great bend to the south, and to pursue it farther would unnecessarily increase the distance. The route from this point is therefore traced nearly on one straight line to Rosario, a distance of 120 miles.

After leaving the Tercero, the country for nearly twenty leagues is uninhabited, from fears of the incursions of the Northern Indians, who, at different intervals of time, have penetrated even to the river.

In the uninhabited district, the route of the railway crosses a small rivulet about twenty-five feet wide, called the Arroyo Tortugas, which forms the boundary between the provinces of Cordova and Santa Fé; below a thin stratum of mud, it has a firm foundation.

Sixteen leagues from Rosario, we again entered the populated districts at the Cañada de Gomez, a fine wide valley, on whose gentle slopes numerous herds of cattle graze; the line follows this valley for several miles, crossing the small streams which drain it three times.

About ten leagues from Rosario we cross the Dismochado River, so called in this part, but which is in reality the Tercero under another name.

Between the river Dismochado and the Paraná at Rosario, there is scarcely anything to note. The country is exceedingly smooth, and uninterrupted by any streams. Approaching within a short distance of Rosario, the evidences of an increasing population, and the entrance to a town of some consequence, are discernible in the scattered buildings, brick kilns, and cultivated inclosures, all apparently of very recent growth.

The proper Terminus for the road at Rosario is a point of some importance; the true plan, undoubtedly, is to descend from the plain in which the city stands to the lower table, so that the cars may be connected by a mole directly with the Paraná river.

EDITOR's TABLE.

As it is the custom in this country to localize the memory of our great men and call our streets, arroyos, canadas, &c, after them, we think it but right that now, as the Governor and Ministers are about to leave office, we should be on the look-out. There is however, some difficulty in selecting the proper sites. To avoid giving umbrage, we hold our columns open to the public, and shall be most happy to receive suggestions on the subject. Now, as several failures have occurred during Mr Dominguez' administration, and the Government kept the public waiting so long for the railway money, and ultimately closed on six weeks' interest—as paper money has suffered great depreciation, & ounces were sent out of the country, by the Bank reducing the rate of interest to 4 per cent—as the country has been fearfully prostrated, its credit injured, and bankruptcy the order of the day, we consider that the best tribute of respect we can pay to such a Finance Minister is to call the Debtors' Prison after him, and thus identify his name with insolvency and bad pay.

As for the Minister of Government, we have not yet determined what to do for him. Calle Acosta does not sound well, and, besides, it is mal-apropos, since this public officer's jurisdiction lay more in the little country towns and partidos than in the fashionable thoroughfares of Buenos Aires.

Frankly speaking, the present state of our affairs is so truly lamentable, that our honest indignation knows no bounds, and we have to thank Divine Providence that, in May next, we may hope for a change. In the country districts, everything is completely paralysed by the Government having doubled the price of public lands; whilst, in the city, commerce is at a stand-still, and collections impossible, owing to the conduct of the Bank. About three months ago, we cautioned Governor Saavedra of the consequences which would ensue, if the Bank lowered the rate of interest to 4 per cent; but he paid no attention to us. We now point out the egregious error of putting a greater value upon money than what it is intrinsically worth, and which, if persisted in, will lead to the most disastrous results. We insist that, as this Bank is a Government concern, the Government should interfere, and have the rate of interest lowered.

We turn with pleasure from the painful task of criticising the acts of inexperienced Ministers, to contemplate the untiring efforts of an enterprising foreigner. Sr Rams is working hard on the Salado, and waiting for the engineer, Mr White, who arrived per last packet, but cannot find his way up for want of a vaqueano. We extract the following passages from a letter just received from this genuine Argentine patriot:—"The works are going on in a most satisfactory manner, and we have studied the average height of the water during the year, having received valuable information from parties who have resided over ten years on the banks of the river. I may mention that General Don Antonio Taboado and the Cura of Matará have afforded us many important statistics. I have requested the commander of Matará, after we descend the river, to take observations as to depth of water during the ensuing months, advising me every 15 days of the result. It affords me the greatest satisfaction to inform you that the respective Legislatures of the provinces of Santa Fe and Santiago del Estero have extended the period allowed me in the concession. I have not as yet heard from Cordova and Salta, respecting the success of my petitions to the Legislatures, but have every confidence that I shall be equally successful there. Since my last letter I have been occupied in observing the river, and have remarked that from the 23d ult. to the 4th inst, the water has risen four inches and sunk four and a-half inches, which only leaves a difference of half an inch in 12 days. I have come to Santiago del Estero for the purpose of getting two vessels built, adapted for descending the river."

We watch, with the greatest anxiety Mr Rams' career, and doubt not that soon the 580 square leagues of land, which have been granted to the company, will be brought into a market where buyers will be found, and by this means the population be increased, and the riches of the country developed.

One of the most ludicrous camp auctions ever heard or known of took place in the partido of San Antonio de Areco, the other day. Messrs. Billinghurst, Bonorino, and Cowland were completely outdone. A certain party having bought some small articles of furniture for a puesto which he was about to take, and having changed his mind, and sold his sheep by private contract, called an auction of his remaining effects. A certain well known sheep-farmer, volunteering to act as auctioneer. As it was the first thing of the kind people crowded round from all parts, and the furniture sold remarkably well. The greatest animation existed amongst the bidders until by some unhappy mistake an asador was knocked down at double its value to some unsophisticated shepherd: then the real sport began: our friend with the asador threatened to make short work both of the auctioneer and the proprietor, after a short time order was restored, and the auction concluded. If Mr Billinghurst has the reputation of getting the highest price ever known for sheep and rams, our friend from San Antonio can at least assert that he has obtained the very highest figure paid in Buenos Aires for a roasting spit.

Our friend, Mr M, in the Post-office, had a very narrow escape, the other night, in the calle Parque. Strolling along this respectable street, at about half-past 11 o'clock P. M, watching the stars above and below, our quasi fellow-countryman was stupified at the sight of a girl, in her night-clothes, dropping from an azotea into the street. True to the blood of his ancestors, our hero rushed up to the fallen woman, and found, to his horror, that she was insensible from the effects of the fall. To run off to the corner grocery store and return with some stimulants was the work of an instant. In the meantime, the unfortunate girl had revived, & a crowd had gathered. Our Post-office friend rushed, breathless, into the crowd, and dashing a pitcher of water and a little brandy on the female form, thanked Heaven that his exertions had been so successful. Thinking, however, that his part of the business was done, and remembering the words of the song—

"When a lady elopes
By a ladder of ropes,
She may go to Hong Kong for me."

Mr. M. was about to depart but a few indignant champions of unprotected females laid hold of our hero, and would have marched him off to the Policia had not the girl writhing under the most intense agony not only, at her fall from the roof, but also at seeing him who so nobly and generously had assisted her, rushed upon the party and assured them of Mr. M's innocence, she stated that being anxious to go to the masque ball and her patron refusing her permission she had resorted to this means of escaping from her imprisonment. Our friend M. feels for the girl, and also the extreme inconvenience he has been put to, he therefore has determined never to frequent calle Parque after 9 o'clock p. m. again.

The Tribuna people seem annoyed with the manager of the Northern Railway, for not allowing old tickets to be used as new ones. In every country in the world, a Railway ticket is of use only on the day it is issued, and we consider Mr. Zimmerman is deserving of every praise for adhering to the rule, even though it inconvenienced our acting Prime Minister.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

The Pueblo of Santiago del Estero gives details about the alleged plot against Gov. Correa in Catamarca. O'Mill is in Tucuman, and is said to have directed the conspiracy through Gregorio Moreno & Dermidio Ocampo, who are charged with intending to shoot Correa and his friend, substituting O'Mill, or else annexing Catamarca to the province of Tucuman. Peñaloza is also accused of being an accomplice, having promised to seize the capital, with his retainers, on the 1st inst.

The upper provinces complain that D. Regulo Martinez, who has been Inspector of Roads and Customs since 1860, has confined his travels to Cordoba, and Mendoza, where no doubt he has wrought a reform, but neglected Tucuman, Santiago and the others, in his hurry back to Buenos Ayres to sit at Congress, as Senator for San Juan.

The Pueblo attacks Senators Moreno and Navarro, calling them intruders and hopes that the Congress of 1863 will expell them, as the former has always been an instrument of tyranny, and the latter renounced some time ago his right of citizenship.) Cotton is enthusiastically advocated and the Manual for planting re-produced as a folletin.

Messrs Rams and Hutchinson were welcomed at Santiago as public benefactors, but Col. Condarco, who accompanied them, was exposed to obloquy, for having been Minister of War under Derqui. Gov. Taboada returned on the 1st inst. from his labors of canalizing the Rio Dulce, which are very successful. D. Juan Borjes is acting Governor.

Messrs Rawson and Wheelwright were received at Rosario with music &c. and a crowd welcomed them on the mole. The petition of parties who will cede them land to the enterprise has been signed by a large number of proprietors. The Diario has changed hands, Sor Zuloaga being replaced by the former editor, Saravia.

Dates from Cordoba are up to the 11th inst. The small pox is making great ravages. The Franciscan prior is dying. The diligence returns shew a good passenger traffic, and the number of doubloons, condors, reals &c. conveyed seems to indicate that the paper money of Buenos Aires has not yet infected the monetary atmosphere of the interior.

The Tupungato 9th inst. reports the opening of the Mendoza legislature, on the 5th. The act of last session being read, the house impeached the Secretary of making false memoranda: the election of 14 Deputies was ratified, to make up the half of the Chamber which refused to sit any longer with the pupils of Draco. Four prisoners escaped from confinement on the 1st inst. A gaucho named Rosa has been sentenced to death, by the new law of shooting a man for 25 $. The Matriz church is almost finished and will be blessed in a few days. The market, street paving, and lighting, are in construction, so that ere long the traces of the Earthquake will be lost. The Assessor has got leave of absence for a month, on the plea of ill health. We are happy to find the Standard fiercely attacked by the print which advocates the decapitation law valuing human life at 25 $.

A thief is threatened with execution for having stolen a watch from Don Domingo Bombal!

The budget of 1863 for Catamarca shews a deficit of 50 per cent in the Treasury, amounting to $30,000. A post-office has been established at Famatina, under Don Samuel Garcia: the mails for San Juan and Rioja will, in future, pass by Jachal and Chilecito. Gov. Sarmiento decreed funeral honors to his secretary Don Manuel Duran, and pronounced a panegyric over his remains. There are some complaints against the bishop, Aldazor, and it is sought to remove him to Paraná.

Baron Maua's engineer arrived at Rosario on the 18th, and is about to commence his perilous and lonely journey in quest of Sor. Rams and the other explorers of the Salado.

LATEST FROM CHILE.

Gold mines have been discovered at a place called Angol, and adventurers are flocking thither. Some robberies had been committed on the high-road from Concepcion to Talcahuano. The Araucanians offer no indications of hostility, and it is proposed to make a friendly treaty with the late subjects of Orelie Antoine. Corn is largely exported from Tomé. Mr Trumbull of Conception has retired from the American consulate, Mr Edmund G. Burton succeeding him. A mutiny occurred at Penco, on board a Peruvian ship; but the captain wounded one of the sailors, and restored order. Tobacco was very scarce, and had risen exceedingly.

The Chilian frontier has been extended to the line of Malleco and some 2000 settlers have occupied this part of Araucania. The press ridicules the fears agitated by Peru respecting the Spanish exploring squadron; a letter is published from the Spanish Foreign office to H. C. Majestys Minister at Montevideo declaring the amicable intentions of Spain, and advising him to cultivate the acquaintance of Sor. Seoane. The Peruvian Congress has refused the extraordinary faculties demanded by the Executive.

On the 19th ult. a terrible fire broke out in Tomé, consuming almost an entire block: luckily it was overcome in about three hours and the church and adjoining premises were saved. Mr Wm. Lloyd has been commissioned to survey the projected line of railway between Chillian, Concepcion and Talcahuano. Mr. Vincent O'Ryan has been named Director of the municipal college of Victoria.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

We have received the Ferrocarril of Santiago, Jan. 31st, which brings important news of the Central republics. There is fear of a rupture between Guatemala and Salvador: the former State, under Pres. Carrera, abets the French invasion of Mexico, and Juares has suspended diplomatic relations with that republic. Meantime Barrios dreams of uniting all Central America under the Government of Salvador, and counts upon the aid of England, to raise up a barrier against France or Spain. President Castellanos of Honduras is dead and Montes has succeeded to power. General Martinez has been re-elected to the supreme Government of Nicaragua, but Congress has yet to decide on his eligibility; Sr. Cuadra comes next on the list, in case of his rejection.

Venezuela is still in hot water, and the whole country desolated by factions and revolutions. Gen. Paez boasts that his sway is unopposed, while his adversaries, the Federals, state that they have gained ground. Each party seems afraid of the other, and until a decisive battle take place, the truth cannot be known. Mosquera is triumphant in New Granada, and the assassination of Arboloda has so disheartened the rebels that they have sent their late general's brother to beg conditions of the unscrupulous conqueror. Ecuador, lately enjoying tranquillity, is prey to another formidable revolution; Quito, the capital, has declared for General Maldonado, and as Flores is at Guayaquil, it is probable this republic will now have two Presidents

Peru no longer threatens her neighbours. Pacific notes have been exchanged with Bolivia, and the representative of Ecuador has been admitted to several friendly conferences with the Peruvian ministry. Economy is the order of the day: the military list has been greatly reduced. Greater liberty to commerce is also granted, and things begin to look a little better.

THE COLLEGE AT LOBOS.

We are delighted to learn that the English College lately established at Lobos is meeting with all the support and encouragement which it so eminently deserves.—It is scarcely possible it could be otherwise. Bearing in mind that this College is conducted by two highly distinguished scholars—men who have obtained high honors in the first Universities in Europe and whose reputation as practical and experienced teachers has been recognized and admitted by the most competent tribunals; no one could for a moment doubt the brilliant success of their new establishment in South America.

In confirmation of the above we feel much pleasure in giving insertion to the following extract from the Dublin Evening Post of December 6th 1861 in reference to their late establishment in Ireland.

"It will be seen by referring to the London University Calender that there are nine Catholic Colleges both in England and Ireland connected with the London University, and that of them Spring field College, Ennis, conducted by Doctor Fitzsimon stands next to Stonyhurst, and at the head of all the other."

This is a telling fact, we congratulate our countrymen in having such an Institution in this the land of their adoption; and much indeed do we rejoice to find that they are resolved to avail themselves of an opportunity so providentially placed within their reach.

LOCAL EVENTS.

THE PACKET leaves on Friday. We shall publish our usual packet edition on Thursday morning.

IMMIGRANTS.—42 arrived on Saturday per French ship "Racine" from Havre.

TRIBUNAL OF COMMERCE.—Dr [illegible] has accepted the post of judge of this tribunal. Dr Carlos has resigned.

DROWNED. The body of a young Italian was recovered on the beach last week: he was drowned while bathing.

COTTON.—The legislature of Cordova is going to assign a prize to the best and largest cotton grower in that province.

UNIVERSITY.—The tariff of payment for degrees and studies in this establishment has been approved of by Government.

NEW FINE.—Belgrano is progressing rapidly: the latest improvement we hear of, is a fine of twenty dollars for galloping through its unpaved street.

EL BACHILLER.—This is the title of a new literary paper to appear very shortly. We hope that unlike its predecessors it may succeed in living over a couple of months.

OMNIBUS.—There are many complaints of the bad service of the omnibuses of the Northern Railway, the principal grievance appears to be the remarkable gravity and leisure of the horses.

SALTO.—The committee for th construction of a mole were ready t receive the plans and proposals for th work. The inhabitants of this progressive little town object to the permanence of the troops in the vicinity.

MASQUE BALL. On Saturday night the masque ball at Colon took place; about 2000 people were present. There was less animation than on the previous nights, but everything went off well. Another was announced for last night.

FINE AUCTION. Mr Billinghurst is to sell by auction, on Sunday, the 8th March, eight fine quintas on the Parana, Gallo Fiambre Island, the property of Sr Croza. The steamer Pavon is to take the passengers off at [illegible] o'clock morning. A good breakfast will be given on board, and roast carne con cuero on shore. The trip is splendid, as the steamer passes in front of San Isidro, San Fernando, Tigre, Las Conchas, etc. into the Luxan branch of the Parana.

CARNAVAL.—The streets present still the disagreeable consequences of this game. Many eggshells are stuck in the fronts of houses and in some pavements rendering them slippery; two or thre accidents have already happened on this account; the police do not oblige house owners to clean the streets as there is yet no fine recoverable for this offence.

SLAVERY.—A peculiar case has been brought before the Government by the Portuguese authorities, It seems that a passenger on board the French Packet stole a young black boy from this city with intent to sell him in Rio Janeiro as a slave, the passengers on board signed together a petition to the Portuguese Government giving notice of this fact and now information to that respect is requested from this Government.

FOREIGN MISCELLANEA.

LIBERATION OF THE REV. MR. M'LAUGHLAN.—The Morning Journal of this morning announces that the Rev. Mr. M'Laughlan, who was committed to prison for refusing to give evidence a short time ago, has been liberated.

SOCIETY OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL, GLASGOW.—A monthly meeting of the "Glasgow Central, Council" of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, was held last Sunday evening. The President of the Society for the district presided. The Right Rev. Dr. Gray visited the meeting, and after expressing kind wishes for the success of the Society, gave the Episcopal benediction.

REMAINS OF AN INDIAN PRINCESS.—An American paper states that some persons have recently explored an Indian mound at Charlestown, Massachusetts, the burial place of Ninigret, the last of the Pucquot sachems, and found the remains of his daughter, his only unmarried child. They dug 4ft. and came to three very large flat stones, weighing perhaps a ton each. Raising them out of the way, they continued digging 4ft. deeper. They then struck a large iron pot, filled with smaller pots, kettles, and skillets. They found also a large brass kettle filled with porringers, and other kitchen ware and bottles. On removing these they found under them decayed wood in the form of a large log, and an iron chain surrounded it. On one side were hinges, and on the opposite side a padlock made fast to the chain. It appears that the log had been split in halves, the inside of each half excavated so as to receive the body of an adult. On removing the upper half they found a skeleton enshrouded in a silk robe, and on the head a cap or bonnet of green silk. Extending from the top of the hed was a chain like a watch-guard, down to the sole of the shoe, and there fastened to the outside sole near the toe. The leather of one of shoes was decayed; the other remains, and indicates a very delicate foot, Surrounding the waist was a belt made of wampumpeag, and covered with silver broaches as ornaments; around the neck was a necklace, and at the wrists were silver sleeve-buttons. They found also two coins, one siver dated 1650, and a copper farthing; also inside the log was a set of Dutch spoons, some metalic Dutch pipes, and ladies' thimbles, and other articles.

HAMPDEN AND HIS MOTHER.—John Hampden succeeded in his infancy to the family estates, for his father died in 1597, when his heir was little more than three years old, and his will directs that his wife, Elizabeth, shall continue to enjoy the use of such apartments as she may choose in Hampden-house. She had a long lease of those chambers, in a dwelling often visited by trouble and death, for we learn by the parish register that she departed this life on the 21st of February, 1664, having lived a widow 69 years, and attained the great age of 90. Her lengthened life comprehended more than 28 years of Elizabeth's reign. She had discussed as county news the whole history of the Gunpowder Treason, which was hatched at Gayhurts, in Buckinghamshire; and, almost before the victim's blood was dry, the hideous details of Sir Everard Digby's execution must have reached her solitary chamber. From its windows she might have lisened to the chanted psalm, and the dull sound of the muffled drums, as she watched the long procession of disheartened troops who bore, with furled ensigns, through the ancient woods, to the chancel vault in his parish church, all that remained of the great son she had borne—truly a Master in Israel. The still days of her saddened life were creeping over the Chiltern hill-sides when King Charles was led to the scaffold through the long gallery at Whitehall. She witnessed the rise and fall of the Common wealth, and wondrous tidings in the shape of family news must have reached her solitude of the crowning dignities of her slovenly nephew Oliver. As a very old woman she heard on her lonely hill that wild midnight tempest of the 2d of September, 1658, which traversed England while one of the mightiest among the erring souls of men fluttered from the snares of his mortality. The next January saw her only surviving child, Richard Hampden, Lord of Emmington, in Oxfordshire, laid in the family grave, and it must have been a matter of little moment to her when, in the following May, her greatnephew, Richard Cromwell resigned the Protectorate and retired into private life. Four years afterwards this aged woman joined her family of ghosts.—Once a Week.

IRELAND.

The clandestine visit paid at twilight on a Saturday evening, to the Catholic University, by Sir Robert Peel, has offered the Mail material for two articles of a semi-humourous, semi-hortatory character. Catholics attach no importance whatever to that visit. The national subscription this year to the University, notwithstanding the badness of the times, bids fair to exceed that for last year. The architect of the new building has the working plans just completed, and the contract will likely be advertised next manth.

Tallow 50 pipes at 13 3|4 rls. on Saturday, another private transaction took place to-day.

We regret to confirm the report of the failure of another wholesale almacenero.

Our remarks on the money market. in Sunday morning's paper, have given general satisfaction on the Bolsa, every sentence that we wrote being but the truth, every argument advanced incontrovertible. Another almacenero has failed, and we hear that his liabilities exceed 5 millions currency. It is thought that this failure will bring down several other houses, but as yet it is impossible to say. We have been assured that the Bank proposes reducing its rate of interest, and that on last Saturday it discounted freely every good bill that was presented.

We have yet time to mend. The Bank directors have now their eyes opened to the dangerous game they were playing; they can now see the error against which we so strenuously cautioned them, and we hope they will profit by the experience. If paper money becomes a little easier, and interest lower, both ounces and exchange will fall, not because the ounces will be brought back to us in a hurry, but simply because confidence will be restored in the value of our circulating medium.

There is notwithstanding all that may be said to the contrary, an uneasy feeling amongst our moneyed men as to the state of things. This arises from many causes, but by far the most important of all, from the conviction that we have got the wrong men in the right place, and also from the multitude of unpaid treasury notes bond, railway shares, and other evidences of debt which have been dishonored by one government and repudiated by another: there is also a sort of double dealing on the part of the finance minister in refusing to pay the interest on the W. Railway shares given to the Dredge company which is discountenanced by every merchant in town.

There is a recklessness of principle in holding money in the treasury when in every street in this city overdue and unpaid treasury notes are to be met with. The whole credit of the nation is jeopardized by such conduct: add to this the great procrastination of the Provincial Government in paying the Western Railway stock-holders and then shaving them out of 45 days interest: then the fact that the Government cannot sell an inch of land at the price it now asks: all these things combined have a very injurious effect on our money market. To combat this effect our duty towards our adopted country those who could and have managed our finances to their own credit and their country's advantage are put on one side and their advice disregarded.

We trust that General Mitre will open his eyes to these facts, we know full well that he has no easy card to play and that Rome was not built in a day, but if the national creditors cannot be paid, they can be at least treated with. A treasury note is similar in character to a bill of exchange and should be paid with the greatest exactitude, Government lands dont belong to the Government, but to the country itself and therefore should not be held up as a speculation, it is absurd to argue that because these lands in twenty years hence may be worth a million the square league that to-day they are worth one copper real more than $200,000 and should not be sold at that price.

AMBER TEETH SETTING.

Charles E. Krause sets teeth by a new invention, amber, which is found superior to every other mode, It accommodates itself to the gums and palate much better than gold, which requires springs. A set of teeth in amber, after two days, serves for mastication, speaking, and lasts a life time.

My collection of artificial teeth is very fine, and cannot be distinguished from a natural set. I will also clean teeth with great care.

I have a number of instruments for extracting roots of teeth, also for stuffing the same with gold, silver &c., which I guarantee for a number of years.
